Sofia Ioannou's Global News Interview

In March, our co-founder Sofia Ioannou spoke with Global News Montréal about a reality too many families face: there isn't enough adapted, subsidized housing for autistic and intellectually disabled adults.

You can watch Sofia's interview by clicking on the link below.

Upcoming Events

Good luck to all of the candidates!

As our community heads to the polls, we wish all mayoral candidates the very best. Inclusive housing, disability rights, and community services are non-partisan issues that affect thousands of families.

Your voice counts: Talk to local representatives about the housing gap for neurodivergent adults.

Spotlight on our Volunteers

Building Connections Across our Communities

Thanks to the dedicated outreach efforts of Basia Morawski, Maison WILOH has successfully established connections with every West Island municipality, as well as with federal and provincial elected officials.

As the mother of a bright and energetic young lady who dreams of having her own place to live, Basia brings both passion and purpose to her advocacy. Through her perseverance and commitment, we were able to meet with key decision-makers, share the objectives of our project, and gain their understanding and support.

These meetings have not only brought greater visibility to the needs of neurodivergent adults and their families, but also helped build important recognition and credibility for Maison WILOH within the broader community.

Maison Wiloh is Recruiting Board Members

Maison WILOH is seeking non-parent board members with expertise in:

- Legal (governance, real-estate/NP compliance)
- Finance (budgeting, modeling, capital planning)
- Fundraising/Development (campaigns, major gifts, partnerships)

If you, or someone you know. can bring these strengths to our table, we'd love to talk. Send us an email here.
